1. Between 10 and 16 March three plenary meetings of the East China Military and Administrative Committee were held in Shanghai, to which were invited 503 leaders from the governments of Chekiang, Fukien, Shantung, North and South Kiangsu, and North and South Anhwei, and from the city governments of Shanghai and Nanking. JAO Shu-shih was Chairman of the meetings.
2. Reports by various representatives on regulations for the punishment of counterrevolutionaries and on the investigation and implementation of land reform in East China were read and approved. After this JAO announced the following main objectives of work to be accomplished in the area:
- Construction of military defenses.
 - Implementation of land reform.
 - Suppression and elimination of all reactionaries.
 - Strengthening of public economy.
 - Training of technicians.
 - Improvement of city administration.
 - Training of political workers in every walk of life.
 - Intensification of cultural education of the people.
 - Promotion of solidarity of all classes.
3. By 24 March there were enrolled 7,500 workers in the Wuhsi (120-18, 31-35) area in the Communist-controlled Workers Picket Squadron. This organization is divided into four units and is intended to maintain public order, especially in factories in the area.
